

CHIEF AND JUDGE AT LOGGERS HEADS

Monsarrat and McDuffie Carry Row to Judge Whitney—Long Standing Feud.

(From Wednesday's Advertiser.)

Trouble long brewing between Judge Monsarrat and Chief McDuffie of the detective staff came to a head yesterday when the former called on Judge Whitney of the circuit court and complained to him about the action of the chief.

The trouble was partly due to W. T. Rawlins, the attorney, who defend Morimoto, a Japanese who runs a billiard room, in the police court yesterday morning. Morimoto was charged with permitting a minor, an eighteen-year-old boy named John Kokua, to be on his premises, licensed as a billiard parlor. Chief McDuffie, who arrested the man, was the first witness. His testimony was afterwards ruled out by Judge Monsarrat on Rawlins' request, as "conclusions."

Young Kokua took the stand and testified that he had been in the place, but had not been playing. There was no game going on, he said. The law reads: "No minor or female person shall be permitted to be or remain in or about any premises where licensed billiard tables are had and operated." The judge discharged the prisoner, at Rawlins' request. He refused Brown permission to reopen the case and introduce evidence regarding Morimoto's license, which he had not specifically done before.

Boy on the Stand.

The main witness was, Kokua. The boy testified on cross-examination that he had been held in jail since noon of the day before and had slept in the same cell with four Filipinos over night. Rawlins then talked about the "persecution" with which the police followed up their victims. He denounced McDuffie and his men for holding the boy in jail, referred to "police outrages."

The boy was discharged. Judge Monsarrat, as soon as his duties permitted him, went to Judge Whitney.

"I can't understand what he came to me for," said Judge Whitney yesterday. "He came in as mad as possible, striking his fist on the table, and started in to talk about McDuffie. All I could do was to show him the law which says that minors under the age of ten could not be held in jail and that between that and the age of eighteen they could be held in jail but that they must be kept in a separate cell. Over the age of eighteen there are no restrictions and this boy was over eighteen. McDuffie was holding him to bring him before me, which, of course, he had a perfect right to do."

"Chief McDuffie is doing what he can to keep minors away from billiard parlors. Of course," he added in answer to a question, "this procedure does not help him any. The police have been most careful about handling minors at the police station. I do not know of a single case where they have ever exceeded the law, or where they have not paid the most scrupulous attention to it."

McDuffie is as mad over the matter as is Judge Monsarrat. "Unless I get a man to plead guilty I don't seem to stand a chance to convict at all, no matter how good the evidence is," he said yesterday. "I took the boy up to Judge Whitney today and as I was leaving I saw Judge Monsarrat going in. I went in too as I wanted to be in on anything that was going on. He started out by saying I had no right to keep the boy there and Judge Whitney took down the book and showed him the law, and that I did have the right to do it. Then Monsarrat said that the boy should have been turned over to the probation officer. Judge Whitney told him that there was no detention home, or any place where he could be kept except in the city jail. Monsarrat then said that at least I should not have put him in a cell with Filipinos."

"Rawlins is still playing his same old game and heaping abuse on the boys of my staff who are doing their level best to perform their work properly. I'm getting tired of that, among other things."

The Court's Statement.

"The case was simply this," said Judge Monsarrat, last night. "The prosecution didn't prove that Morimoto conducted a licensed billiard parlor and I had to discharge the defendant. The prosecution moved to reopen their case, but Mr. Rawlins argued that it couldn't be done and quoted United States authorities."

"I was a good deal influenced in reaching my decision by the fact that the owner of the billiard parlor was outside when the boy went in, and that there was no game going on. I looked at this as being pretty hard on the boy if he had just slipped in and sat on a bench for five minutes and then picked up a cue which a Japanese had laid down."

"What annoyed me most was the witness, the boy, being brought into court in the custody of the officer like a convicted prisoner. Then Rawlins put up a spiel about the persecution on the part of the police and I couldn't convict under such circumstances. "I have nothing against McDuffie. I have always treated him with the greatest of courtesy, but I must say that he has not always treated me that way."

VANDERBILT CHOSEN.

NEW YORK, March 7.—William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., was elected vice-president of the New York Central Lines at a meeting of the board of directors yesterday afternoon.

A reward of $500 has been offered for the capture of Earl Standard, the fugitive bookkeeper of the American National Bank of Pomona, California, charged with taking $149,000 from that institution.

RECEIVE ORDERS TO PREPARE FOR FIRST INFANTRY

(From Wednesday's Advertiser.)

Orders were received at military headquarters yesterday morning to proceed with preparations for the reception of the First Infantry at Schofield Barracks May 12. The regiment is to sail from San Francisco May 5. There will be more than 800 officers and men on the regimental roster, each company to have sixty men, in addition to band and various supernumeraries. After reaching Schofield Barracks the regiment is to be recruited to seventy-two men for each company.

General Macomb, as soon as the orders were received yesterday, issued instructions to the constructing quartermaster of the department, Captain Edwards, to assemble the tent village for the new regiment. The orders from Washington are to quarter the officers and men in tents as if they were in the field. However, the constructing quartermaster will provide plank flooring for each tent and will provide as many necessities as he can make his allowance stretch over. Racks will be installed in the tents for hanging clothes and, if the weather be cold, small field stoves may also be furnished.

The regiment will be assigned to field space near the Second Infantry cantonment. The First is now commanded by Col. G. K. McGunnagle.

DR. COOPER GETS ORDERS TO MARCH

Lieut.-Col. Charles B. Cooper, surgeon-general of the National Guard of Hawaii, heads the list of six national guard medical officers, selected by Major-General Wood, chief of staff, for special instruction at Fort Leavenworth. Copies of the order reached Governor Frear and General Macomb in yesterday's mail. General Wood's order dated February 16, reads as follows:

"Under the provisions of an act of congress approved January 21, 1903, amended by an act approved May 27, 1908, the following named medical officers of the organized militia are authorized by the President to attend and pursue a six weeks' course of instruction at the Army Field Service School for Medical Officers, Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, and to report to the commandant of that school not later than April 1, 1912:

"Lieut.-Col. Charles B. Cooper, National Guard of Hawaii (Honolulu, Hawaii Territory).

"Lieut.-Col. Joseph A. Hall, Ohio National Guard (Cincinnati, Ohio).

"Maj. Bial F. Bradbury, National Guard of Maine (Norway, Maine).

"Maj. Frederick Schavoor, Connecticut National Guard (Stamford, Connecticut).

"Maj. William S. Terriberry, National Guard of New York (New York City).

"Maj. James H. McCall, National Guard of Tennessee (Huntingdon, Tennessee).

"Capt. Earle S. Green, Indiana National Guard (Muncie, Indiana).

"Travel from the respective homes of the officers named to Fort Leavenworth and return, under the authorization herein contained, is necessary in the military service."

Doctor Cooper will leave for San Francisco today in the steamship Honolulu, accompanied by his wife and children.

WHAT A LITTLE WORRY WILL DO

Distressing Symptoms That Arise from Overwork and Worry and That Show the Need of a Tonic.

A little worry does a great deal of harm. Overwork and worry give rise to nervousness, headaches, sleeplessness, lack of ambition, lack of interest in your work, weak back, indigestion and sometimes a complete breakdown of the nervous system. If these are your symptoms, you need a tonic. The best way to tone up the nerves is through the blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are a direct nerve tonic because they enrich and build up the blood. Under their tonic influence nervousness and all the other evils of worry and overwork quickly disappear. They restore the digestion and enable the body to take full advantage from the food eaten.

Mrs. Jack Clark, whose address is Box 38, R. F. D. No. 1, Medicine Lodge, Kansas, says:

"Through overwork I suffered from a general breakdown for about a year. I was very nervous all of the time and had no strength at all. I had severe headaches which nearly drove me crazy. They often lasted for two or three days. I was subject to dizzy spells and a blurring sensation over my eyes. I was also subject to hot flashes. Any little excitement would bring on these nervous and dizzy spells. I could get but little rest and was tired out all of the time. I had no ambition to work and was frequently forced to stay in bed for a day or so."

"I did not get any benefit until I tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. They helped me so much that I was soon able to sleep well and to take a fair trial I was entirely cured. Since then I have given the pills to my daughter, who was very weak and in poor health, and they cured her also. We feel that we cannot praise Dr. Williams' Pink Pills too highly."

For a full statement of this treatment write for the free booklet, "Diseases of the Nervous System, Their Nature, Symptoms and Treatment." Send today, a postal card will do.

More Money for Leilehua.

The secretary of the treasury, February 21, transmitted to the house of representatives a supplemental estimate of the secretary of war and recommended its adoption, for the appropriation of $400,000 for continuing the work on the permanent cavalry post at Schofield Barracks. This is in addition to $200,000 authorized June 25, 1910, for the construction of a cavalry post to consist of headquarters and two squadrons. Later it was decided to make this a regimental post. The new appropriation is to make the post a full regimental instead of a partial post.

Harbor Board May Get Bishop Lease

When the lease of the Bishop Estate property, on which the marine railway is located, runs out, the remainder of the lease which has nineteen years to run under the control of the territorial government, will probably be vested in the harbor commission. Attorney-General Lindsay, in an opinion given at the request of the commission, stated that under ordinary circumstances, if the land was located anywhere else but along the waterfront the property would be vested in the land commission. Being waterfront property it should properly be held under the control of the harbor board.

Captain A. J. Merriweather, commander of the Confederate battleship Noble during the Civil War, died at Gainesville, Texas, aged eighty-nine years.

HULO CONTRACTOR WINS WHARF CONTRACT

James D. Lewis Will Build Napoopoo's Structure—Price to Be $9415.

Napoopoo's new wharf and shed and derrick will be installed by James D. Lewis. The harbor commission yesterday awarded a contract to build the wharf for $9415. This was the lowest of five bids submitted for the work and was more than $5000 under the highest. Mr. Lewis is a Hilo contractor. His bid for the wharf proper was $7015; shed, $200; derrick, $400.

George M. Marshall's bid was $10,900; Honolulu Construction and Drayage Company, $13,295; Charles Wells, $12,400; A. A. Wilson, $14,460.

The lowest bid will leave a good sized portion of the appropriation unused and the commission authorized Chairman Campbell to use it in extending the shed.

Napoopoo landing is on the west coast of Hawaii, on one side of Kealahou Bay, famous as the place where Captain Cook, the English navigator and discoverer, was killed.

LIHUE RESIDENTS ASK WIDER WHARF

Commercial development at the port of Nawiliwili and the town of Lihue on the island of Kauai, has assumed such proportions that the present wharf at Nawiliwili is too small to handle cargoes and Lihue residents want it widened.

A petition from Lihue, signed by about thirty residents, including A. S. Wilcox, William Rice, J. H. Coney, sets forth the fact that there is now a single track running down the wharf, but on steamer days there is so much freight that the width of the wharf makes it impossible to operate the car with any degree of satisfaction to consignees.

The petitioners state that the commerce has developed about three hundred per cent in the last three or four years.

The commissioners are in a quandary over the request. They have been endeavoring to enlarge and remodel the Waimea wharf on the opposite side of the island, and believe they should complete the work before attempting any new work on Kauai. As soon as the Waimea wharf work is done the necessary work on the Nawiliwili wharf will be started. Meanwhile an engineer from the public works department will be sent over to make the necessary surveys and learn from the residents just what they want done with the present wharf.

ONIONS WILL BE IMPORTANT CROP

Market Superintendent S. T. Starrett, returning from an inspection trip to Kauai, predicts that onions will be one of the most important products of the Territory within a few years, and that hundreds of tons will be exported.

Mr. Starrett was away on Kauai looking over land where onions were planted under his direction about six months ago, and he has nothing but the most optimistic statements to make concerning the future of the onion industry in the Islands.

After his return yesterday he was busy inspecting bananas which were to be shipped on the Honolulu last evening to San Francisco.

UNCLE SAM SOLDIERS WANT TO STAY HERE

When Company G, corps of engineers, sails away for the mainland, a large number of its members will remain in Honolulu, principally as members of the two Coast Artillery companies at Fort Ruger.

Exchanges have been effected between noncommissioned officers and privates of the Coast Artillery and the engineers. Some of the coast artillerymen, whose terms of enlistment are nearly finished, have transferred to the engineers, and will be mustered out on the mainland.

One of the reasons why so many engineers wish to remain behind is that they have married since coming to Honolulu and prefer to remain here and grow up with the country. There is one soldier at Fort Shafter who came here about seven years ago with the Tenth Infantry, and who has been transferred from his old command to each succeeding one. He married shortly after coming here and now has a family of seven children. Moving, in his case would be attended by seven or eight difficulties.

MEN OF WAR REPLACE OLD TRAINING SHIPS

WASHINGTON, February 27.—Green jacks, who used to go to old receiving ships when they enlisted, will now go to full fledged men-of-war and get their training.

The battleship Indiana today was designated to take the place of the old receiving ship Lancaster at Philadelphia; the cruiser Denver was ordered to replace the historic Independence at Mare Island, Cal., and the scout cruiser Salem will take the place of the Wabash, of civil war record at Boston.

The old ships may be turned over to patriotic societies. The battleships assigned to receive recruits really are on reserve and are ready to fight on twenty-four hours' notice.
